DESCRIPTION:

Expedition to the Altai region of Sibiria on horses JULY 1st to July 7th. A unique opportunity to engage in a exploration journey of Russian wilderness in a company of professional survival experts. Group of around 15 people will learn horseback riding. Will cross mountains and beautiful meadows, will enjoy panoramic views of pristine mountain lakes and rivers. We will fish trout and wild salmon. Will pick fresh wild mushrooms and berries. Members of an expedition will have a unique opportunity to see life of people in remote parts of Russia., try traditional food, visit Russian sauna (Banya) and listen to folk music.

Altai region is a heaven for nature enthusiast and people that want to go out of their everyday routine and comfort zone. The journey begins in Moscow a uniquely cosmopolitan city. Majority of expedition members will arrive to Moscow on June 29th to have a chance to relax and also see city's attractions, experience night life, dining and more. Will fly to Sibiria on 30th of June or early morning July 1st. The flight is approximately 4 hours. Then will arrive to Gornoaltai's airport and meet our guides. The group will load back packs to cars and proceed moving towards our first destination to.. a small village of Katanda. Will check in to comfortable traditional Altai huts 3 person in each. Group will have a traditional feast and Banya.. Next morning will get a breakfast, instructions and equipment and also each traveler get his horse. Journey will take place near mountain of Beluha 4506 meters or 2.79 miles high which is the highest mountain of Sibiria. This area also known as home of Yetti, that's what local people call a BIG FOOT, During the expedition we will sleep in tents and will cook on fire.
